War Comes Back.
Shall We Keep Out?
Must We Meddle?
Gen. Mitchell's Warning.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., Jan. 30—War is not pleasant. Some thousands of American soldiers and their mothers made that discovery a few years ago.

The unfortunate, unprepared and defenseless Chinese in Shanghai, Harbin and elsewhere are learning what the inhabitants of European cities learned in "the big war."

Japan sent her deadly airplanes to Shanghai with no difficulty. They were carried on ships and released to do their work.

As easily as Japan sends airplanes to Shanghai, Europe or Asia could send them to New York, Boston, Washington, D. C., San Francisco, Seattle, Los Angeles or San Diego.

* * *

THESE WEST COAST cities are especially interested in the possibility of trouble spreading from Asia, since the first blows would be struck here. They should interest themselves in their own defense, not relying entirely on protection from Washington, D. C.

That interesting capital city is so busy stirring up Asia and nursing Europe that it has had little time to think about the United States.

Our plan, like that of the Chinese, seems to be "wait until trouble comes." We did that last time, and our dollar-a-year "patrioteers" spent a billion dollars on ships that couldn't be given away afterward, and another billion on airplanes that wouldn't fly.

We still have that brood of patriots on hand and they retain their power.

The American people, particularly in these western states, should do some thinking and acting for themselves, the action to include building pursuit and bombing airplanes, as part of their state equipment.

They couldn't make a better investment.

* * *

THIS COLUMN has talked frequently about our lack of adequate defense and the stupidity of making aviation a subordinate branch of the army or navy, while other nations have separate air forces under separate management.

This column has also during past years protested repeatedly against squandering savings of Americans by persuading them to invest in worthless foreign bonds.

To what has been said here about aviation the reply has been, "What can a newspaper man know about national defense?" And to statements printed here about dumping billions of American dollars in exchange for worthless foreign bonds, the reply has been, "What can a newspaper man know about finance?"

* * *

THOSE THAT BOUGHT bonds can answer the second question.

The airplane question is answered in a letter that this writer has just received from Gen. William Mitchell. He is no "mere newspaper man," having been in full charge of our aircraft forces in the big war. What he writes is offered for the consideration of readers and the national government.

"Regarding aeronautics, you may publish anything I have written you. Our condition is deplorable. I visited Selfridge Field during my vacation in Detroit. This is the station of the First Pursuit group. Pursuit aviation is designed to seek out, catch up with and destroy enemy aircraft.

INSANE KILLER ESCAPES FROM LIMA ASYLUM

Three Other Inmates Captured in Desperate Break for Liberty.

WRENCH DOOR FROM CELL

Fake Pistol Used by Madman in Effort To Gain Freedom.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Jan. 30—Four inmates of the Lima state hospital for criminal insane made a dash for freedom early today but only one got beyond the institution's grounds. The man who escaped is Sam Nelson, 24-year-old Cleveland killer and automobile thief.

Nelson, alleged to have strangled and stabbed Guard Louis Kiehl to death last spring, was said by Dr. William H. Vorbau, superintendent, to have been the ring leader in the plot. He declined to give the names of the other three.

Nelson and his companions wrenched the door from their cell and used it as a battering ram to break down two other doors leading from their quarters.

One of the insane men displayed a weapon which he told guards was a pistol and threatened to kill them. Rushing him, the guards found the "pistol" was nothing more than newspapers and cloth fashioned to resemble a gun.

Nelson escaped after the Kiehl slaying but was captured the next day.

Sheriff Jess Sarber, several deputy sheriffs and city police augmented the hospital guard in a search for Nelson, whom Dr. Vorbau described as a desperate man.

CANADIAN POSSE IN SEARCH FOR MADMAN

Extensive Manhunt Starts for Brutal Slayer of Six Persons.

By The Associated Press

ELMA, Manitoba, Jan. 30—A madman fled in sub-zero cold today before the wrath of a posse, the blood of six members of the Martin Sitar family on his hands.

A special train brought provincial officers from Winnipeg shortly after word was sent that Sitar, his wife, and four of their children had been murdered and their farm home set afire.

Tom Hrechkosie, a laborer employed by the Sitars, is missing. The possibility that he may have perished in the fire was discounted.

Those dead are: Martin Sitar and his wife, Sophie; Frank, 20; Walter, 11; Bert, 10; and Jennie 7.

A son, Paul, four, was taken alive from the burning dwelling, but his condition was precarious. Mrs. Sitar, too, was alive when neighbors burst into the flaming structure, but she died within a few minutes.

All had been stabbed and hacked about the head. The burned stocks of a shotgun and two rifles led to belief the victims may have been shot.

Neighbors awakened early yesterday by smoke from the Sitar home, found the doors barred from the outside by heavy blocks of wood and had to use axes to force an entrance.

OHIO 'MERCY' SLAYER ORDERED TO ASYLUM

Father Who Chloroformed Young Son Insane, Examiners Find.

By The Associated Press

MILLERSBURG, O., Jan 30—James Stenhouse, Killbuck stone cutter and confessed "mercy slayer of his small son," today was found insane and was ordered committed to the Massillon state hospital for the insane until cured.

The sanity of Stenhouse was investigated today by special examiners.

Stenhouse told authorities he killed his son with chloroform because the boy suffered a brain infection which doctors said was incurable. A grand jury refused to indict and recommended the sanity hearing instead.

AMERICANS TO BE RELEASED

Honolulu Officials Allow Bond for Defendants in "Honor" Slaying.

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU, Jan. 30—The navy having agreed to cooperate in keeping defendants in the Joseph Kalahawai slaying in this jurisdiction, civic officials today announced they would permit the release of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, E. J. Lord and A. O. Jones, under bond.

The four were arraigned yesterday for the second degree murder of the young Hawaiian, one of five youths charged with attacking Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, Mrs. Massie.

Judge Cristy denied a defense motion to quash the indictments on grounds that the court coerced the grand jury into bringing in the bill of accusation. The judge told Defense Attorney Montgomery Winn, he "was plainly incompetent" because he declined to give the sources of his information. Winn said the jury was ready to report a no bill, but the judge ordered further deliberations.

EXTRA SESSION ASKED TO SEEK LIBRARY AID

White To Consider Plea Monday; Marion Institution Not Greatly Affected.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30—Governor George White and his cabinet will meet early next week to determine the advisability of calling a special session of the legislature to consider the financial problems of Ohio's communities.

Meanwhile, Governor White had before him a new request for the special session, presented by a delegation representing libraries throughout the state. The group told the governor many libraries would "close their doors within the next few weeks unless you and state legislature come to their assistance."

Spokesmen explained that the new classification tax amendment took from boards of education the power to levy taxes not to exceed one mill for library purposes, and that while library boards are entitled to a share of the tax on intangibles, there are no funds available.

That the Marion city library would not be greatly affected by the action of the legislature in removing the one mill levy, was indicated this morning by George A. Bowman, superintendent of the city schools. The local board, the superintendent said, has never levied more than one quarter of a mill for library purposes and he feels reasonable sure that the tax on intangibles from which funds for operating the library will be taken, will be sufficient to provide the library with as much money as it received last year. The Marion library, he said, will as far as he is able to determine at the present time, continue to operate as in the past.

MERCURY DROPS 39 DEGREES IN NIGHT

Temperature Tumbles from 60 to 21; Forecast Is Continued Cold.

A drop of 39 degrees last night and snow flurries this morning, gave winter its claim to attention today in Marion. Overcoats and fur coats were brought out today, and thin layers of ice made porch steps dangerous.

Rain, snow and sub-zero temperatures were reported over the country in Associated Press dispatches.

Drops from 60

Yesterday the temperature rose to 60 during the day, but following heavy rains slumped to 21 last night for the low temperature of the 24 hours. A 39 degree drop is unprecedented in this year's weather reports. The rainfall measured .53 of an inch. A year ago the maximum temperature here was 53 and the minimum was 30.

The weather forecast does not promise a return to the "Palm Beach" weather of several days ago. The Ohio bureau prediction for the week-end is "generally fair and much colder tonight, Sunday fair and continued cold."

Wishes Gratified

Ohioans expressing longing for "a good old-fashioned winter, will have their wishes filled if prognostications of the weather sharps come to pass.

A cold rain last night put the skids under the mercury, and from a high of 62 degrees in the state, the temperature fell to as low as 20 in some sections today.

The nose dive was general over the state, and weather observers reported that the bottom had not yet been reached. They looked for a temperature of from 10 to 15 degrees above zero tonight.

Today was the coldest of the winter.

Rivers of the lower Mississippi valley basin were swelled by heavy precipitation. A cloudburst drowned two persons at Ellisburg, Ky., and flooded hundreds of acres of land.

Cold added to the suffering of flood refugees of Mississippi and Louisiana. Temperatures as low as 24 below threatened livestock on western ranges. It was 44 below in Yukon, Alaska. The forecasters warned that the disturbance was due in the Atlantic seaboard states next.

Heavy Snow

Snow and cold struck the Pacific northwest. Rain fell in northern California, a heavy wind swept all the state.

Snowdrifts piled up in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas. Drifts and a bitter wind hampered efforts of Red Cross workers to aid needy farmers in drouth stricken northern Nebraska.

THIEVES LOOT TWO STORES

Second Hand Shop and Grocery Broken into Here During Night.

TEAR HOLE IN ROOF

Burglars Use Unique Means To Gain Entrance to Room.

Activities of burglars in Marion last night netted them a quantity of jewelry from one store and groceries from another, according to police reports today.

Watches, guns, knives and silverware were included in the loot taken by burglars last night from the second hand store operated by A. W. Habluetzel at 220 north Main street. Habluetzel said he was unable to estimate the value of the goods taken.

Breaking into the grocery store of E. E. Graham at 535 west Columbia street by tearing a hole in the roof, a burglar or burglars last night stole 73 pennies and merchandise valued at between $25 and

A small safe kept beneath a desk in the Habluetzel store was taken to the basement by the burglars and ransacked after a door had been pried open with a small bar.? Several gold watches including a new one was taken. Five dollars in cash which had been placed in a desk drawer was also taken.

A light pine door at the head of a flight of stairs leading to a basement was broken down by the burglars.

Police believe the burglars were frightened away before they completed their task as several guns and some silverware were found piled up near the entrance to the basement through which the burglars apparently carried their loot to a car at the rear.

Graham discovered the burglary of his grocery store when he opened for business at 6 a. m. He found the store had been entered through the roof and that the intruders had left by means of the front door of the adjoining vacant apartment. The door panel between the apartment and the store was broken out.

A hole had been made in the roof large enough to allow a man's body to pass through after the slate roofing was torn away. The loot included gloves, tobacco, coffee, cheese and meat.

AIR LINER MISSING IN MOUNTAIN WILDS

Fear for Safety of Eight Aboard Lost California Plane.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30—A tri-motored air passenger line with a pilot and seven passengers aboard was lost last night in the mountain and desert wilderness between here and Bakersfield, Calif., about 150 miles north.

The plane left Bakersfield at 2:50 p. m., and was due here an hour later.

Officials clung to the hope that although terrific winds were reported over the area the plane landed in some little valley floor, possibly far distant from a telephone.

Three women and four men, all Californians, are the passengers.

23 CARS PILE UP IN C. & O. DERAILMENT

Mishap Blocks Traffic Between Fostoria and Toledo for Day.

Local officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway are in Pemberville, O., 20 miles north of Fostoria, aiding with the work of clearing up the C. & O. tracks there following a derailment yesterday of 23 cars of a loaded coal train.

The derailment was caused by a broken archbar on one of the cars. Both the east and west tracks were blocked until late last night. Traffic from Marion and other points was detoured on the New York Central lines from Fostoria to Toledo.

Some of the cars were telescoped, standing almost on end, according to word received here. Wire service was temporarily disrupted when some of the cars struck the poles along the track, bringing down the wires. Wrecking crews from Columbus and Toledo were still clearing away the wreckage today.

The engine and some of the coal cars had passed through a bridge just north of the station when the cars were derailed. Some of the cars left the track while still on the 90-foot span of the bridge.

The damage could not be estimated today. It was known that some of the coal could not be retrieved.

C. M. Ryder, assistant trainmaster, and F. A. Sparks, track supervisor, are among the officials at the scene.

RACKETEER AT BUCYRUS SENT TO JAIL, FINED

Arthur Craven, "Special Investigator," Pleads Guilty to Extortion.

COMPANION IS ABSOLVED

Authorities Pose as Bootleggers and Hear Offers for Protection.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., Jan. 30 Arthur Craven's venture into the "protection" racket came to a sudden close here this morning when he was fined $250 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in the Crawford county jail by Mayor Arthur Schuler.

Craven, self-styled special investigator of Toledo, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Schuler on a charge of extortion. George Williams, his companion, was released from custody when Craven, in a confession made yesterday, said he was not connected with the plot in any way.

Approaching persons fined on charges of possessing intoxicating liquor during the Licciardi vice cleanup several weeks ago, Craven said that new affidavits were being filed in the federal courts charging them with the sale of liquor. Representing that he had a great deal of influence, Craven promised them protection at a cost of $10 a person.

Attaches of the sheriff's office and police department, posing as bootleggers, met with Craven. The "protectionist" explained his "proposition" to them and they agreed that it was the thing to do. One of them paid $10 and then arrested him. He was taken to the county jail for investigation.

Approximately 25 persons paid fines on liquor charges as the result of raids conducted by B. J. Licciardi, special investigator of Toledo, who was brought here by local civic interests to clean up the city.

White Economy Order Brings Drastic Slash in Welfare Department.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30—Complying with an executive order for economy, John McSweeney, state director of public welfare, today ordered 148 persons cut from the payrolls of state welfare institutions and a reduction of more than $400,000 in maintenance costs. The curtailment is effective Feb. 1.

Appropriations for operating expenses of the department were fixed at $8,684,560 by the general assembly. The 15 per cent reduction ordered by Governor White in all state departments, lops off $1,302,684.

McSweeney said however that not a single nurse or physician will be removed from the institution payrolls.

To accomplish the reduction of $150,000 ordered in the personal service of the department, some offices will be combined and some eliminated.

COLUMBUS, O. Jan. 30—Salaries of all penitentiary employes, including that of Warden Preston E. Thomas, will be reduced 5 per cent to make up the $16,256 payroll reduction ordered by the welfare department, the warden announced today. Warden Thomas said the reduction would be made through donation of work, each employe being asked to donate between one and one and a half days a month to the state.

Despite the assurance of Mayor Wu Te-Chen (above), mayor of Shanghai, that he would comply with all Japanese demands, marines from the Nipponese ships in the harbor landed in the native quarter of the city after a 10-minute bombardment of the Chinese forts.

Sino-Japanese Developments at a Glance

By The Associated Press

The grim spectre of formal war arose over China late today as General Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese military hero and former president, sent telegrams to his lieutenants urging that they prepare to defend China and fight for her national existence.

At the same time a Reuters News agency dispatch from Nanking said the highest government officials, meeting in a council, had decided to declare war on Japan.

The echo of the war cry was heard at Tokyo where a war office spokesman, referring to China's decision to evoke more drastic sections of the League of Nations covenant at Geneva, said the league council "must bear a terrible responsibility" if through its action "a world conflagration" should be precipitated.

Meanwhile American consular authorities at Nanking ordered all American citizens to be ready to evacuate the city within two hours.

At Shanghai, the bloody battle which raged over the Chapel sector for 36 hours lulled during the afternoon and thousands of bloody and torn Chinese refugees scuttled out to take refuge in the international settlement.

British and American residents of the International settlement, shortly before the lull, protested to the settlement consular officials, declaring the Japanese naval staff was using the settlement as a base for its attack upon the Chinese.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations at Geneva, offered the league council a proposal calling for investigation of the events at Shanghai by a commission to be made up of representatives of all powers represented there.

ASIATIC SEA FORCE SET TO ANSWER CALL

Ordered To Stand by To Evacuate or Protect U. S. Citizens in China.

PROTEST SENT TO JAPAN

Formal Action Against Invasion of Shanghai Taken by U. S. and Britain.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 — The United States joned with Great Britain today in formal protest to Japanese occupancy of Shanghai, and almost simultaneously ordered its entire Asiatic fleet to stand by, prepared to protect American lives in China's havoc-ridden cities, or evacuate American citizens if necessary.

"Our forces will go in and take whatever steps are necessary to protect our people," it was announced by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

Eight destroyers are now at Manila ready to sail. Four are now steaming under forced draught for mob-town Shanghai.

Ready for Service

"Our fleet," he said, "will be ready to evacuate our nationals or to protect them if a crisis arises where mob rule prevails."

At the same time, he announced that ships of the battle force will leave San Diego Monday for winter maneuvers off Hawaii, as scheduled. They will not go beyond those islands at present, however.

In the strongest move since the horror of battle has strangled normal life in the opulent seaport, the two nations applied their protest specifically to the Japanese seizure of the native Chinese city Chapel, at Shanghai.

Based on Reports

It was on the basis of reports received from the American consul at Shanghai, Edwin S. Cunningham, to the effect that Japan—after the Chinese had agreed to Japan's demands—had taken sections of the native city by military force.

The decisive stand went much further than earlier representations, which were based only on the safety of foreign citizens and property in the international settlement.

The navy's intentions were disclosed by Pratt as chief of naval operations. Reporting to him frequently is Admiral Taylor, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, now on his flagship, the U. S. S. Houston, at Manila. It can be made ready to leave in 24 hours.

The Houston, a heavy cruiser, carries a complement of 66 officers and 512 men. It also has four aircraft.

Other ships now at Manila include six destroyers, each with a crew of six officers and 115 men; 12 submarines and a force of mine sweepers and aircraft.

Report China Set To Declare War

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30—Seething with wild disorder, Shanghai tonight awaited with grave apprehension unmistakable confirmation of reports from Nanking that the national government had decided to declare war on Japan.

Every man of them carried a pistol in his hand, his finger on the trigger. They swarmed through the streets on foot and in automobiles, dashing through the winding alleys, searching in every corner for Chinese.

Investigator Reports on Condition of Jail

Conditions in the county jail have been improved during the last year, according to a report made to Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield by S. C. Griffin, social investigator for the state department of public welfare, who recently made a survey of the institution.

The division recognizes improvements in the bathing facilities for both men and women prisoners, and installation of equipment for washing clothing. Improvements have made "living conditions much more tolerable," according to the report.

Parts of Report

Further excerpts from the report follow.

"We are calling attention to defective interlocking devices at the jail and recommend that they be placed in order. The sheriff very rightly hesitates to lock men in these cells as a means of discipline or to lock prisoners in cells at night. It is important, therefore, that locks be placed in order as a means of discipline and protection against fire.

"We found the jail in excellent order, the food good and the sheriff making a very comprehensive study of the entire subject of discipline and classification. These problems are more serious in this jail than the average, due to a total lack of classification of prisoners as required by law and too great authority vested in the 'kangaroo' court by former administrations. (The 'kangaroo court' is an informal court established and controlled by the prisoners to maintain discipline among them during time they are imprisoned.)

"This jail was built many years ago without regard to health or classification of prisoners. There is no separation between the two cell blocks and ventilation is entirely inadequate. All classes of prisoners including those awaiting trial, young first offenders, witnesses and the insane are in constant association with diseased and degenerate prisoners serving time contrary to the Ohio code.

To Correct Fault

"The result of such association without employment can not be estimated but is undoubtedly responsible for much of the crime and disease in the county."

The commissioners have taken steps to correct the lack of ventilation in the jail, having recently let a contract calling for the installation of an air cleaner, humidifier, and distributor.

LOAD LIMITS CUT DURING WET SEASON

Board Reduces Maximum Weights by 50 Per Cent on County Highways.

Load limits fixed by statute for the state have been reduced 50 per cent for Marion county by the commissioners, and signs announcing the reduced limits have been posted on county highways by County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens.

The limits listed in the statutes are subject to revision by the commissioners during seasons of the year when excessive moisture and the possibility of freezing and thawing make the roads subject to damage from heavy loads.

Following are the limits fixed by statute, all of which are cut in half by the commissioners' order.

The maximum for trucks with pneumatic tires is 12 tons, with a maximum of nine tons on one axle. For hard rubber tires, limits of 10 tons for one vehicle and eight tons for one axle are specified.

For metal tires, including wagon tires, a maximum of 500 pounds for each inch of width of the tire is the limit for tires of three or less inches in width. Addition of 800 pounds for each inch beyond three inches is permitted.

Weight limits fixed by statute for solid, and pneumatic rubber tires are 450 pounds an inch for tires three inches wide, 450 pounds an inch for tires four and a half inches wide, 500 pounds an inch for tires four inches wide, 600 pounds an inch for tires five inches wide, and 650 pounds an inch for tires six or more inches wide.

Enforcement of the load limits rests with Chester Cosgrove, road deputy in the office of Sheriff C. C. Fye.

BOARD FAILS TO HIRE AIDS

Reappointment of Health Department Staff Held Up by Mayor.

Contrary to expectations, the appointing of the staff of the city health department for the year did not feature the meeting of the city board of health called by Mayor W. C. Phillians yesterday afternoon. The meeting was the first to be held since the inauguration of Mayor Phillians and it was the general assumption that the plan of other years, that of employing the staff for the year, would be carried out.

An effort by Health Commissioner Dr. N. Sifritt to bring about the usual procedure by suggesting that some action be taken, was balked by the mayor who said no action looking toward the employment of the staff would be taken. The health department staff, however, will continue to function in the meantime.

Dr. S. W. Mattox, a member of the board suggested that a joint meeting of the county and city boards be held before employment of the staff for 1932 is taken up. The health commissioner said he did not think that was necessary but gave the date of the county board meeting as Feb. 6. The mayor advised that the matter be left in his hands and he would notify the members of the board when he was ready for the meeting.

"We are not ready to make any appointments at this time," the mayor told the board. "You can leave the matter with me and I will advise you when we are ready for the next meeting." Assurance that the appointments would be made at that time was not given by the mayor.

Licenses to operate as maternity hospitals was granted both the City hospital and the Dr. F. C. Smith clinic, by the board following a statement by Dr. Mattox that he had received word from the state department of health approving the granting of the licenses.

The board also voted to continue to diphtheria test in the schools following a discussion in which the matter of funds was brought up. Both the health commissioner and Dr. Mattox said they regarded the test program as of vital importance and suggested that if necessary some other phase of the health work be dispensed with in order to continue the work. They pointed out that there had been but 11 cases of diphtheria during last year with no deaths. They also said that in the city alone, 1,822 children were given the test last year ad 551 who reacted, were inoculated.

Darwin Might Be Capable of Explaining This

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O, Jan. 30—While police and firemen suffered nervous "jitters," a 28-year-old rubber worker remained perched atop a 200-foot water tank at Wadsworth, near here, four hours last night, defying them to come and get him.

At first they tried to coax him down with shouts that he "wasn't allowed up there and besides it's dangerous." They tried climbing, but it was a long way up (also down) and worse, the tank-sitter shook the ladder.

Threatening to jump if pursued again, the man produced an ear of yellow field corn and munched it with leisurely relish.

A downpour of rain forced him down at last. Two disgusted policemen took him to the police station.

He said his name was John Michler.

SHANGHAI SWEPT BY RAIDER HORDES

Reign of Lawlessness Follows in Wake of Japanese Attack.

off Japanese residents in the quarter and that it was imperative to root them out. If that was the purpose the job appeared to be done under no central authority but by individuals and gangs who were a law unto themselves.

One such gang, each member with a pistol in his hand, tried to break into St. Luke's hospital, operated by the American Episcopal mission. Hospital officials held them off and finally they left without getting in.

To neutral observers, it appeared that nothing could prevent the disorder from sweeping into the Hongkew Chinese district and there was a general belief that the vicious fighting which took place in Chapel would be repeated in Hongkew. In the center of this whirlpool stood one of Shanghai's leading hotels.

Chapel Is "Furnace"

Chapel itself was rapidly becoming unfit even for battle. It was a furnace with great columns of smoke rising from the ruins of the hamshackle Chinese houses. As darkness fell the flames engulfed still more buildings and the sky was red for miles around.

Refugees struggling into the settlement said at least a thousand buildings already had been destroyed and the fire was still spreading unchecked.

By thousands they thronged into the haven of the international settlement, a blood-smeared, terror-stricken, cringing crowd, and threw themselves on the ground or into any corners of safety they could reach.

The settlement was crammed with them. As soon as the rain of bombs and bullets ended they emerged from their embattled houses and corners and took to their heels, their wheelbarrows and their automobiles, using anything that would carry themselves and such of their belongings as they could scrape together.

Stoppage of firing came slowly after many confused reports of an armistice.

Earlier in the day a sudden and determined counter-attack was launched by the Chinese, reinforced, it was reported, by well-trained forces of General Chiang Kai-Shek which were said to have been spirited into the city during the night

Two battalions of Japanese marines were rushed ashore from warships, to meet this new show of fight from Shanghai's defenders.

Fire Unchecked

Since a bomb from a Japanese plane started the first blaze 40 hours ago, efforts to check its advance have been impossible and the Chapel district tonight was an inferno roaring a serious threat to all of Shanghai.

Should the wind sweep the flames to the south it was possible that a wall of fire half a mile long would advance upon the international settlement and it seemed unlikely that the settlement fire department could combat it.

Those who live along the border of the settlement were evacuating their homes and taking refuge at points further removed from Chapel.

A social time followed the dinner, in which two quartets sang. Members of the men's quartet were Merle Lashey, Dale Trowbridge, Howard Orr and George Burrows. The four in the women's group were Miss Edna Devinney, Miss Dorothy Ambrose, Mrs. Dessie Carpenter and Mrs. Marabelle Fitch. Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Fitch are members of Grace Evangelical church.

HOOVER CORPORATIO BOARD COMPLETED

Salt Lake City Man Fina Choice as Reconstruction Director.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—Wilso McCarthy of Salt Lake City, Democrat, banker and lawyer, is Presidents Hoover's choice for the seventh and last place on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation board of directors.

His nomination will go to the senate Monday. The other six directors, half of them serving ex officio, half appointed, already have pitched in to work, although the appointed three—Charles G Dawes, president, Harvey C. Couch and Jesse H. Jones—can not take the oath of office until Wednesday

On the remainder of the economic program, senate Democratic leaders got together and decided to push the Glass bill for bank-law revision and relief to depositors in closed banks.

They gave an eye to the pending LaFollette-Costigan $375,000,000 direct federal aid measure, but, without reaching a final party decision, arranged to make a try to put it back in committee for new study.

Will Plans To Find Out About Bees and Ants as a Result of Transpacific Trip

BY WILL ROGERS

FROM the Far East, by Mail—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I go hither and thither. You know I kinder like people to talk with about more than I do gaze at Temples and Churches. Well Sir there was on our Boat coming out here quite an interesting bunch. We dident have many passengers outside of the steerage, but we had a mighty interesting little bunch.

Two Germans who had been home from Japan on a visit, prominent business men, spoke good English, that is about like me. Said things were very bad in the old Country, even worse they thought than most of the other places. But seemed mighty cheerful and optimistic about it. Great race those folks. When they do come back they will do it with a Bang, for they are built of fine stock.

Depressionless Money

These were great Readers, well informed on everything, and told us more of Japan than even a Japanese Scientist that was with us. He was mighty pleasant, but he wouldent tell us exactly what we asked him. He was smart though, he had been down to Pasadena, and studying with Prof. Milliken and all those fellows that Einstein was with. You know, funny thing, it was a Japanese gardner that had a Truck patch away out in the Desert toward Arizona that had a sort of an Amateur globe of some kind and he found a Star, a new one that none of the Scientists had ever found. There was a big fuss made over it, I remember at the time, and they give him a new set of tools, or Spy Glasses or whatever it is you find odd things with, just for his contribution to Science, so he went right on picking Radishes, and I bet in about another year he will bob up with another Star, or Planet. Hope he finds one that hasent been hit by depression.

By the way I wonder if they are hit like all the rest of the World anyway. If they are it just shows you how far Hoovers influence reaches. Then of course we had Floyd Gibbons on there, and he knows about everything, and has been everywhere, and read everything. A Scotch Golf Player from Canada that was as liberal as any one you ever saw, I dont know where they get that Scotch stuff. Then a Standard Oil man from the Jersey Company, Mr Walton. He was headed for Batavia, where they have big Holdings.

But the fellow that I want to tell you about was the "Bee Man." His name was Riddell. He had lately come from up in Alberta, Canada, and he was just about as odd and human a Fish as you will find in a years trooping. He had on board 500 hives of Bees, taking them out to China. Well up to the time I met him I dident know any more about a Bee than I do about Shakespeare. But the Bee man told me a lot. He had em all stored on deck, right out in the cold. He first had em down below, but he was afraid of the heat, so they brought em up, and they was roped down, for believe me you Brother those Bees did some rocking if they was with that Boat

Drove Him to Bees

He would send all over the Country just to buy Queen Bees, that s the Head bee. There is some Guys called Drones that dont do anything as long as they live, but they Bump those Babies off mighty soon, so the life of a Drone while its restful, its rather curtailed. He says they are all organized and that each one has his certain work to do, some bring it in, some store it away, some stand guard. I am going to get that Book of Materlinks on Bees and read it. He says that's what drove him in the Bee business

I remember Materlink when he was brought out years ago to Hollywood with the Sam Goldwyn Company that I was with at the time. I dident know he knew anything about Bees then or I would have asked him. He was a mighty pleasant old fellow, and had a plum pretty little French wife. I knew he had written a Play about I think it was Blue Bird, but I dident know a thing about this Bee business But it was the other qualities that made this Bee man stand out. He at first was kinder a "Windy." But as we kept trying to pin him down, why we found out he had really been there, or he had read it.

By Golly those fellows on the Boat that had really read a lot couldent find anything to stick old Bees on I finally horned in with my repotoire of books consisting of Ibanez "The Cabin," Sandbergs "Lincoln," McGuffys Fourth Reader, the Life and Exploits of Jesse James, "When the Daltons Rode," and on the way over Lamb s "Genghis Khan," and "Marco Polo." Now thats my lifes work digging through that mess, and here this Bee Guy not only had read all of em but memorized most of em, and then would tell me companion books that I should read following these up But the Rascal was just book smart and he dident nave much real Horse sense knowledge. He had read a little beyond his limit.

He Gave Us Light

He was what you call a kind of a well read Nut. He thought the three greatest men in the World was, well I cant even remember either one of them. I believe one was Thoro, or some name like that, a poet or something like that, and Whitman, and another Writer, he really thought these men had contributed more than a man like Lincoln or Edison. You see they ought to be a law to stop a man reading when he gets too far. Imagine a Poet, dont care what kind of a Poet he was (even a good one) being worth more to the World than Edison. How could you read the Poetry if it wasent for Edison? You would have to read it in the day time.

But Old Bees was pretty tough to down in all argument, and you would about have to buy him a drink to beat him. He was a young fellow too, about forty-two, but he was high on old Thorou or whatever his name was, he lived up around Boston, Harvard man I guess. I never could find out from Bees just what type of stuff he turned out. Maby was a Collumnist. He had also read a lot of Chinese stuff. He and the Japanese would argue over that, I tell you this old Bee man was a freak.

He knew an awful lot about Ants too. Thats something he got me interested in, and soon as I can get my mind off Movies I am going into the Ants. This old Boy just put more ambition into me. He has just got me all excited to learn, so no more Hoover and the Senate and Boarah and all that, I am going to devote my time from now on to Ants. They do something.—Copyright, 1932, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

WITH EDNA S. HUTTON

HOMELY philosophy, humor and philosphy around in Douglas Durkin's story, "Mr. Gumble Sits Up." The story is unusual and although rather a strange one, there is a whimsical vein which makes it most enjoyable.

Mr. Gumble was being persecuted. He was persecuted by his creditors, by his wife. When he fell sick he rather enjoyed the experience. His creditors and his wife both stopped nagging him. They told him he was getting worse and was going to die. He didn't mind. He thrived in his sickness. The sicker he became the better he liked it. And when he died he didn't seem to mind. For that matter, no one seemed to mind very much. He was pronounced dead by the doctor, the minister and the sheriff. But Mr. Gumble did not remain dead. No, he sat up, right in the midst of his own funeral. Mr. Gumble loved a joke but that was carrying a joke too far. No one had ever carried a joke to the grave and back again.

Gumble had really died, of that everyone including Mr. Gumble was certain. But here he was. Mr Gumble found that it was impossible for a dead man to remain among the living so one day he left the little town where he had been a respectable hardware merchant and became a traveler He had may strange adventures on the road. But he had profited by his experience with death He was no longer afraid to die This gave him the advantage of those he met His adventure with the tinker with the fair widow and her fairer sister all make up an interesting story

"Passing Strangers" Is Modern Story

"PASSING STRANGERS" by Felix Riesengert, introduces the reader to people of every day life and the folks we meet on the street. The author has gone back to the more familiar pattern of the novel, and has written a penetrating full-bodied story of our time He catches in his story the terrific stimulus and fever of these days taking his characters through the years of the so-called boom and into the depth and turmoil of depression The underlying struggle of the book is a struggle that spares no one, the universal economic war in which every one participates and in which, by the strange laws of life, the weakest must bear the cruelest blows Mr Riesenberg's version of the struggle, however, is a human story in which men and women live and fight for love The novel is a spring publication from the house of Harcourt, Brace & Company

Young Author Has New Book

A TENTATIVE title for Edwin Granberry's new novel is "New World Saga," according to his publishers, Henry Holt and company. The fourth novel of this distinguished young American fiction writer is more nearly in the mood of his "Strangers and Lovers" than any of his other books, and is a departure from the stylistic and highly poetical "The Erl King." It tells the story of the lives of a man and a woman and their children and the animals in the primeval black Woods of Florida, of their heroic adventures with man and nature in their jungle home, on the seas that surround them and on the islands of these seas It is a book of large proportions with crowds of people and events and the story is as old and as modern as human passions. It might be called the story of the whole South in that the central conflict arises from the most deep-set passion of the South.

"Murder at Brambles" Is New Mystery Tale

A NEW mystery yarn from the pen of Gilbert Collins is "Murder at Brambles" a spring publication from the house of Holt It is a breathless story revolving about the strange murder of Professor Willoughby, the periodic appearances of the phantom touring car and the curious disappearance of Tony Wendhover On the scene of this involved and exciting crime appear Miss Hebe Jolliffe, an obviously fraudulent medium and Trevor Tuscon, a highly irreverent "painting chap." The combined efforts of this unique team are too much, both for the criminal and Inspector Lawton of Scotland Yard The story mounts with unfailing interest and comes to a most unexpected and startling climax.

Preparedness

A SERMONETTE

CARL VERNON ROOP, PASTOR
First U. B. Church

Text: "Prepare to meet thy God."—Amos 4:12.

THERE is a great deal being said, just now about preparedness, both for it, and against it, as it pertains to armament or disarmament. The thoughts of the nations, and the eyes of the world are centering on the most outstanding event of today: The disarmament conference. Interest is increasingly being manifested; hopes are earnestly being entertained; prayers are faithfully being offered, that good, of a permanent order will come from this great gathering of distinguished representatives as the deliberate on vital and momentous questions, that directly or indirectly affect all of the nations of earth

Scanning the pages of history, they tell us of hundreds of wars and thousands of battles. The tramp of the war horse, the clanging of swords, the roaring of guns, the shouts of victory and the cries of defeat, can still be heard. The high walls of protection, the battlements of safety, the engines of destruction, the breastwork lines and No Man's land: proud armies marching forth and shattered regiments coming back, can yet be seen. Intuitively our better selves cry out for peace, but it is stilled by the rumors and rumblings of other coming wars.

In the text the Prophet Amos made bold to shout from the house top and publish abroad, to his people in his day: "Prepare to meet thy God." In Matthew 10.28 we are admonished to fear not only that power that can destroy the body, but Him that can destroy both body and soul in hell. Reasons given by the prophet to Israel why they should hear and give heed and obey the text were: their sinfulness, idolatry and forgetfulness of God, and because of the scourge and curse that followed in the wake of their transgressions. He pointed out to them how they had suffered famines, drouth, mildew, pestilences, the overthrowing of their cities and yet they would not return unto the Lord.

When the eloquent words of the text, "Prepare To Meet Thy God," sounded forth in their ears, they were in the midst of a national depression. High in wealth and prosperity, but low in religion and spirituality. Therefore the prophet warns that unless they repent and return unto the Lord, their posterity will be taken away; their great city Samaria will be captured; the people and their cattle will be driven out; that future catastrophies would be even worse than past calamities.

This challenging command and words of warning of God's faithful and fearless prophet of old, comes to us with renewed emphasis today. Like Israel we have had wars and rumors of wars, floods, earthquakes, influenza, drouth and depression; surely our wealth and prosperity has been on "the mountain top," and now we are going through trying and testing economical readjustment as a penalty for hate, malice, envy, jealousy, pride, lust, vanity, selfishness and forgetting God and destruction of life and property on a world scale. This is bound to have its midnight aftermath for decades to follow. "Yet ye have not returned unto me, sayeth the Lord."

Right now an excellent opportunity is afforded to become pessimistic, if not actually alarmed, if God's command, "Prepare to meet thy God" is ignored, rejected, and forgotten. The only successful remedy for this sick old world today is Jesus Christ, the Great Prince of Peace. Without Christ it is chaos; without repentance it is retrogression; without preparedness it is perdition. Until men and nations become reconciled to God, and accept his wonderful peace, the great gift of his marvelous love, they will still be found in the wake of a curse and a scourge, made possible by their own choice of rejection and forgetfulness.

SYNOPSIS

Pa[illegible] are a regular part of H[illegible] Ross' schedule, but the [illegible] f the season is the one at [illegible] Placid. Her father [illegible] for her, as he fulfills [illegible] other wishes. As a [illegible] Hope is thoroughly [illegible] ut nobody realizes this [illegible] mother. Hope is an [illegible] iged leader in the [illegible] et, and at 17 has be- [illegible] an enviable career of [illegible] es School is an un- [illegible] necessity. She ex- [illegible] free hand in the run- [illegible] the party, for she has [illegible] her prudish sister, [illegible] stay at home in the [illegible] annexing Charlie [illegible] nd Mrs. Ross has [illegible] with Goody. The twelve [illegible] of the party include [illegible] endall, who is in love [illegible] and Angel Thorn.

* * *

CHAPTER SIX

Once in a Blue Moon

ANGEL had the disposition her [illegible] implied, without being [illegible] narrow-minded — as Goody was, for instance.

Angel could be a D. A. R if she desired; and the fact that she didn't was soothing. Angel was the sister of a dead crack aviatrix, and the daughter of a drunken father.

Angel's father could have put his family in the finest house in Westchester, with a penthouse on Park avenue just as an overnight hangout, so great was his talent as an artist. But instead of working and making his, his wife's and daughter's way, Mr. Thorn would lock himself in a room of a good New York hotel, and having had all the furniture moved out except the bed, the phone disconnected, he would stay for weeks in solitude—drinking.

Editors, art directors, president's of advertising agencies, newspaper proprietors themselves in person, would beat upon the locked door pleading and bribing Mr. Thorn to come out and do a cover for a magazine, or a sketch for a silk-stocking contract—just work for half a day and then go back! But Angel's father would have none of them. A month, and Angel's father would be dutifully back at work; doing a cover of pretty maiden faces, and dear-darling backgrounds.

Meanwhile Angel's mother would be going without asparagus or bacon so she might buy a few yards of chiffon; and herself, stitch by stitch, fashion it into an excuse of an evening gown for her daughter.

As a result Angel had enormous talents—for both drinking and art. In five minutes Angel could hand you a slick poster-like drawing of yourself But the poor child was inhibited on the two subjects as far as she herself was concerned. With her mother's New England determination, Angel refused to consider art as a career, and was bent upon educating herself to earn money in a sane and stodgy, but dependable way. Already she was tutoring on the side, and not—which made Hope like her instantly, and give her dresses to be dyed and disguised—"just for the fun of it."

If the truth were known and it became gradually obvious as truths will, Angel labored over Hope's Latin with an eye to being one of the Ross set for a purpose. And that purpose never even guessed how much he meant in her life Rusty Crandall, even when he learned to like Angel, never dreamed how much his every word and smile counted.

These comprised the five couples that Hope had finally chosen for her nine-day party in the glistening snowy peaks of Lake Placid.

The entourage, however, did not stop there. Bessie, Mrs. Ross's personal maid, accompanied Hope to watch over the Pekinese, the five young ladies and their wardrobes. Mr. John Howard Ross, and one of his favored business associates, were aboard the same train, puffing at cigars and playing chess in the compartment.

Finally, there were five horses from the Ross stables including Hope's white darling, Robin Hood. These, however, had been shipped three days ahead, along with Nick, the groom, and Mr Fallows who was Papa's secretary and would always be called Mr Fallows.

Mr. Fallows would have been a charming chap were he not so all-fired efficient At the moment he was sulking feverishly because his mild and well mannered admiration of Miss Sarah—alias Goody Ross—was miserably threatened by the appearance of one blond embryonic lawyer named Charlie Rand. As a matter of witless statistics, Mr. Fallows with his hundred and a quarter a week as Papa's secretary, stood a far better chance of supporting Miss Sarah than any boy who had two more years to go before he was admitted to the bar. Mr. Fallows could boast to the bar of some 26 speakeasies in New York City as it was. He could not, however, boast of Charlie Rand's family—and there, if you please, was the rub!

As members, John Howard Ross and his entire noisy party stayed at the Lake Placid club. The two older men, the five young cuples, the personal maid, the valet and the secretary—not to mention the Pekinese who had special diets prepared for him—in fact, the entire gang settled in the beautiful and picturesque old club house, and ate and drank, dressed and undressed, bathed and rubbed, and powdered, dreamed and laughed and joked, and slept from sublime exhaustion.

Placid was radiant at a peak of its holiday efforts. The American skating-team for the Olympic winter games had its training headquarters there that year, and good old William O'Hare, the well-known coach, for no reason at all invited Papa Ross into the sanctuaries of undercurrent gossip.

Day after day, Hope played with a vigor and energy that work or thought had never called forth. Horseback riding, or skijoring behind Robin Hood, tobogganing on the dizzying slide along with the gang, and climbing the endless steps back again to the height of the starting place. Skating in the moonlight, or playing an inverted form of tennis in one far section of the Lake, with a foursome of skaters. Learning hockey, taking her first ski-jump and landing head over heels in the snow, wet to the skin, bruised and hysterical with laughter. . .Mastering the figure eight, waltzing with Rusty in the special moon that skaters know ....There seemed no end to the headlong excitement—curling and the thrilling insanity of skate-sailing, ice-boats that were more mad than the hairpin curve and the dizzy bends that shot you at 70 miles an hour down a toboggan run....

And then came the moment!

Once in a Blue Moon....

Then came the moment when Hope, completely happy, surrounded by friends and admirers, easily the undisputed beauty of the entire resort, in her green corduroy trousers, her long princess-line green-leather coat, her high brown-leather boots, and the close-fitting hat of green leather—came the moment when she spotted Dickey Dale!

"Heart of a Wife".

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Lillian Find That Ronald Is Playing His Part Well.

AT her husband's admonition to listen to me because she would feel better after I got through talking, Lillian turned her suddenly haggard face toward me, and I made hasty answer to the anxious queries she had put.

"I'm sure Ronald not only can, but will keep it up," I told her. "His pride has been terribly hurt—"

"Marion probably ran him ragged on that trip down," Dicky said sapiently.

Remembering that Lillian had planned that tete-a-tete trip in a desperate effort to counteract Charles Owen's dreaded influence over her idolized young daughter, I ignored Dicky's speech instead of voicing my mental agreement with it, and hurried on.

"I think he already had planned to avoid her"

"Oh! I know that lofty avoidance stunt." This was Dicky, the irrepressible, again. "That's simply food and drink to a starved feminine ego You must have coached the lad well, Madge. He was there, most artistically there, as I believe I remarked before"

"You did, with frills," Harry Underwood told him emphatically. "Suppose you let your wife have a chance to speak her lines, or do you want to hug the spotlight all the time?"

The Full Plan

My husband waved his hand loftily toward me

"Proceed!" he said. "Who am I to—"

"Just so," Mr. Underwood commented.

"Ronald was exceedingly reluctant at first to do anything save get out of the picture entirely," I said, "but he finally promised to 'give Mary a rush,' as Mary herself would put it, but I asked him to be careful tonight because of Noel. Tomorrow, however, you ought to see the scheme in full flower, for Mary has almost too much enthusiasm for it. She figures that she owes Noel something on account of Avis Arlen, and she's perfectly willing to let him have payment in full."

"I'll say she owes him something." Dicky commented. "Any boob that would stand without hitching for over give minutes to listen to that Arlen moron's outpourings, ought to have more than Mary is likely to give him."

Back to the Dinner

"I think you may trust Mary." I said dryly, and Harry Underwood guffawed his approval.

"I'm in full agreement with you on that proposition," he told me "But come along, folks! It's all right to leave the table, because of stern duty, but it's the quintessence of folly to stay away from a shore dinner like that one downstairs, once the duty's fulfilled."

"Spoken like a true trencherman," Dicky approved. "So long, Dad. We'll be on hand when it's time to go."

My father, with an affectionate arm around my shoulders, smiled indulgently, and dismissed us. But I wondered if he guessed, as I did, that Dicky's nonsense and apparent exuberance were but a mask to conceal the vindictive jealousy of Hugh Grantland that he almost had betrayed a few minutes before

We went back to the dinner table to find it deserted, the young people having finished, and as usual, turned the living room into a dance hall. With the remembrance of the wounded Chinese across the hall, they had closed the doors into the hall and softened the music until no sound of their merriment penetrated beyond the room. I gave directions to Katie, patently worried over keeping our food warm, and with the rest went into the living room until she should summon us back to the table.

The Curtain Is Up

"The scheme's working," Harry Underwood spoke softly close to my ear. "Pipe my young daughter's activity."

In his voice was the loving pride that is always his when referring to his stepdaughter. There was amusement also, but I shared neither feeling, although I could not censure Marion for the "rush"—in their own parlance—she was giving Bill. Hurt and bewildered by Ronald's defecton, and with Carolyn's amused, slightly malicious, though undeniably affectionate eyes upon her, she was seizing the only chance she had to escape being a "wet smack," or whatever atrocious substitute modern youthful vocabulary has for the "wallflower" of a generation ago.

When she had first noticed Ronald's defection, I had seen the unconscious predatory glance she had sent around the table in search of retaliatory ammunition. But at that time Bill and Hank were at the other end of the table, so separated from her by the older people that without giving her object away she could not talk to them across the others. And Bob Trevvelan was so occupied with Carolyn that he did not know any other girl was on earth.

But in this impromptu dancing party with five boys to three girls—for as far as dancing partners were concerned, Bill and Hank were as valuable as the three older boys—she was coming into her own again. When we came into the room she was dancing with Bill, the boy's face radiant because of the special attention she evidently had been paying him Hank had snatched at an opportunity to "cut in" on Bob Treavlian, and was blissfully cavorating with Carolyn But my eyes rested, a bit fearfully, upon Noel, who, with Bob beside him, was watching Mary float around in Ronald's arms The curtain was up for our little comedy, destined to bring Marion to her senses. But how much did Noel understand of his role?

"BROWN DERBY" GOES TO CHARITY.

It must have caused former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York quite a pang when he parted with the famous brown derby, the hat that is familiar in every state of the Union as Al's campaign standard. The former governor is shown as he made the presentation of the historic chapeau, among other clothing, to Clarence H. Low, chairman of a New York relief committee, for distribution to the needy. Al urged that all who are able should help clothe those who are unable to help themselves.

Daily Proverb—"The devil leads him by the nose, who the dice too often throws."

In Washington, a news dealer was found guilty of selling salacious magazines and fined. Why should action not first be directed at the publishers?

The health officer of Milwaukee holds that swearing and lying often lead to serious physical ailments, ranging from indigestion to tuberculosis. It's awful to put on people, whose only transgression may be overeating, a stigma like that.

The annual report of one big system of chain stores shows that its profits in 1931 were the greatest in all its history, its earnings for the year being $41,348,795, equal to $4.24 a share, which once more goes to show the worth of that old one about exceptions to all rules.

Who knows? It may be possible that the members of the house got together on the agreement, that the increased rates and new income taxes will not be retroactive, on the theory that the size of the rates on 1931 incomes wouldn't make much difference anyway.

Answering another note by Secretary of State Stimson, Japan virtually tells him to calm himself, expressing the view that this country seems "unduly alarmed." No matter what the feeling of our people, let us hope that the secretary will remain calm.

On learning that one who had made charges against Cook county judges was being heard by the grand jury investigating charges that judges of the county were "mountebanks" and "cash registers," a sitting judge took the inquiry out of the hands of the grand jury and continued it for handling by the grand jury to convene in February. What was that particular judge trying to do, establish the charge?

Because he slapped her when she bid seven spades without the ace of that suit and got set, a Minneapolis woman has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband. The feeling of the average bridge player will probably be that he should have had her committed for insanity.

The plea of a Chicago woman, who is estranged from her husband, that he, the husband, be restrained from running out of the jurisdiction of the court until he pays her $2,000 back alimony, was refused by a judge up there when it was shown that the husband fled from his former home, where he had called, when she greeted him with a fusillage of pistol shots. It will have to be admitted that her method of collecting alimony could hardly evoke judicial sanction.

Addressing the Democratic state central committee of Louisiana, its chairman said: "When our heroic and Christian senator in Washington spoke of Garner and Smith and Harrison as being possible standard-bearers with whom we could win, he forgot to mention our own junior senator, Huey P. Long. He might be the man of the hour and stronger than any of them." If he proves to be,-take it from us that it will probably be a mighty dark hour for Democracy.

Sequel to a Great Adventure.

It is still easy to recall individual portions of the thrill the world received last summer when Wiley Post and Harold Gatty headed their plane, the Winnie Mae, out over the Atlantic and sped in eight days and sixteen hours later from the opposite direction—home safe, after the fastest trip around the world. A great pilot and a great navigator had achieved more than man could imagine conveniently. Their actual flying time was less than four and one-half days.

Gatty, the navigator, shared credit for the success of the flight with Post, the pilot, who was not sparing in praise for his companion's ability. Most of the flight was made under difficult conditions which threw an extra burden on the quiet young man who was "watching the road." His ability to arrive at a point thousands of miles away by dead reckoning was nothing short of uncanny to groundlings.

A pleasant sequel to his part in one of man's greatest adventures was announced this week. He has accepted a post with the army air corps, and will be known henceforth as chief air navigation research engineer. To research will be added the duty of teaching air navigation to army fliers.

Engineer Gatty is not an important man, as importance is rated, but for some reason or other announcement of his attainment of an important position is distinctly satisfying to all those who admired him last summer. Flying around the world may not be an uncommon thing in a few years more, but this generation has deep respect for the man who piloted the way and held the course.

It's a Time To Exercise Sense.

When Belgium was invaded by a mighty armed force, eighteen years ago, the world saw a solemnly-made treaty converted into "a mere scrap of paper" to further what the invaders, before attempting it, considered a brilliant stroke of military strategy. That was in time of war.

Today, in time of peace—technically, at least, a time of peace, as there has been no declaration of war—the world is not only seeing a great territory overrun by alien troops, but also a populous city bombarded from the air and transformed into a shambles, in violation of a number of treaties and utter disregard of the tenets of humanity, in retaliation for a boycott of the goods of the nationals of the invading forces. In other words, the situation in China's greatest commercial center is, in the final analysis, due to Japan's determination to break down the opposition of the Chinese to the Nipponese commercial exploitation of China.

That's the pith of the thing. In retaliation for the invasion of Manchuria, the Chinese initiated a boycott on the goods of Japan which has had a disastrous effect on Japanese industry, shipping and finance. So great have been the inroads the boycott has made into the sales of Japanese products and manufactures in the Flowery kingdom, that hundreds of thousands of tons of Japanese shipping have been tied up for months, and the result of all of it has greatly augmented the business stagnation in Japan resulting from the worldwide economic recession that the island kingdom's financial system is seriously threatened. The very ultimatum of the Japanese command clearly shows that it was this obstacle in the way of Japan's commercial interests which precipitated the bombardment, without parallel in recent world history, for it was executed in time of peace and without, so far as cables show, the due notice, customary in time of war, to non-combatants to vacate the city.

The pages of newspapers and magazines given since the World war to the expression of views on the value, or lack of value, of treaties would, if spread out, completely cover our land from the Great lakes to the gulf and from ocean to ocean. For every printed word, there have been many words uttered by mouth. There have been treaties in almost endless array. We have been advised that world peace can come only through solemn agreement of the governments of the earth to abandon war and all the agencies of war. It would be a happy denouement if wars could be made impossible and all international differences settled by arbitration or by some other peaceful method. But before that situation can prevail, before armed strife is relegated to the discard for all time, there must be more than governmental action; there must be a change in hearts of the peoples of the earth. If there ever were doubt that a government can be forced by the people it represents into armed action against another nation, the present situation in Asia would remove it, for there is no question but what the industrial, commercial and shipping interests of Nippon are responsible for the retaliatory measures taken by the Japanese army and navy in Shanghai - measures which have done more, possibly, to destroy faith in treaties and international conventions and delay world disarmament than any one event of the World war.

Treaties may not be without beneficial effect, but let not reliance be wholly placed on them. Until human nature changes, they will avail as safeguards only when backed by adequate preparedness to resist invasion. The case of China, great bands of whose nationals, it must be admitted in all fairness, have transgressed against all conventions of civilization, is complete answer to the pacificists who would have this country disarm as an example to other nations.

Let us be prepared to defend our land from invasion and our cities against attack like that on the Chinese quarters of Shanghai. Let us be sufficiently strong to discourage imposition and outrage, and may we have the sense necessary to keep us out of Old world entanglements growing out of its commercial ambitions. It's a time to exercise sense.

A New York City lieutenant of police has sued Judge Samuel Seabury for $500,000 damages, claiming the judge by his accusations has injured his name to that extent. In the face of the corruption shown in the police department of New York, a damage claim such as that will strike the average reader as a bit exorbitant.

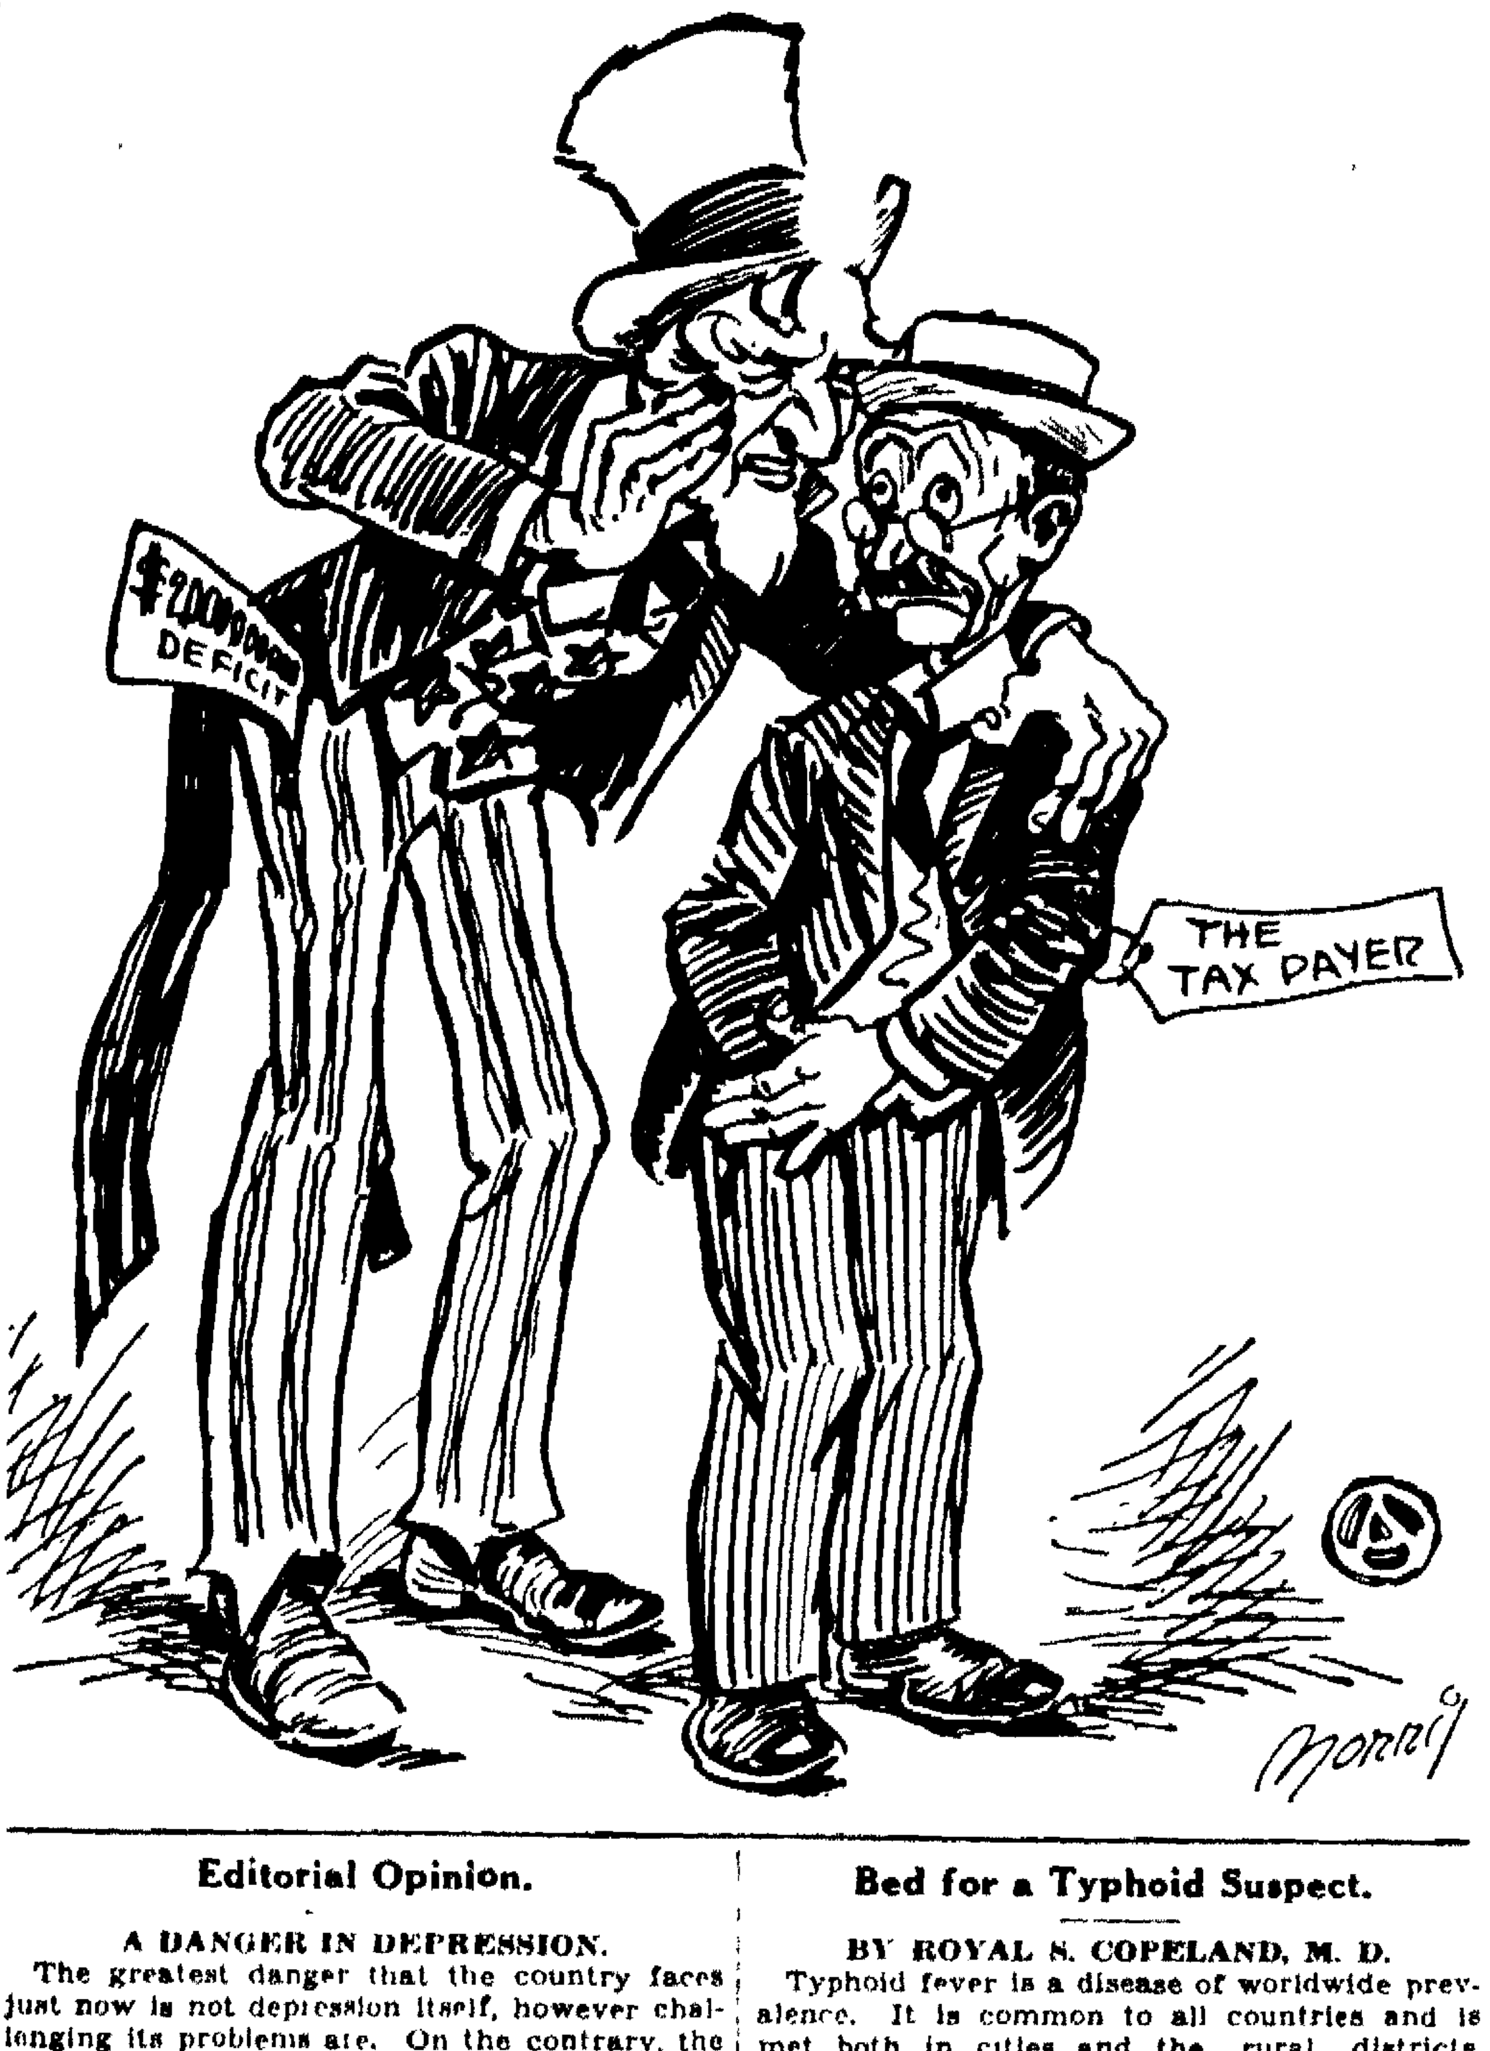
For three years a citizen of White Plains, New York, has been under sentence for bigamy, the complaint having been made by his first wife when he married his second, only to discover this week that he had never been legally married to his first wife as she had a husband living when she went through the marriage ceremony with him under a name which she assumed at the time she met him. Such cases are exceptional in print, but it's not impossible that many similar cases go undiscovered in this alimony-racket age.

Word comes from Madrid that the recent outbursts of violence in Spain are merely the preliminaries to an attempt next month to bring about a proletarian dictatorship there. Pretty soon the decent element of the Spanish people should be able to understand the underlying motive of those who for years carried on agitation for the overthrowing of the monarchy.

Smith Wildman Brookhart calls Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills a "financial illiterate." Another visit or two to his friends over in Russia and Smith Wildman will have the bolsheviki manner of expression down pat.

In a preliminary report, Controller Charles W. Berry, of New York, estimates the city's expenditures in 1931 to have been $1,446,399,616 and its receipts, $1,413,867,997, and places its debt of the date of December 31 of that year at $2,246,100,994. It's hardly necessary, in speaking of cities, longer to ask: "Whither are we drifting?" It is now very generally realized that the most of urban communities are headed for straight on to the financial rocks.

THE TAXPAYER: "I BOW MY HEAD BEFORE THE INEVITABLE."



Editorial Opinion.

A DANGER IN DEPRESSION.

The greatest danger that the country faces just now is not depression itself, however challenging its problems are. On the contrary, the real threat is that we may adopt a series of palliative schemes which will break down the individual initiative on which our national economy is founded. This is true in the states and especially in the federal government.

To meet the temporary problems of strained business and unemployment many groups are advocating hasty measures of socialization, not only in the form of social insurance, but through subsidies to many industries. Some of these panaceas already are enacted or are being considered seriously. Others are merely a potential threat. All of them, taken as a whole, could change completely the nature of our economic system and the very nature of our people.

Because they possess the taxing power, governments tend to absorb more and more functions, once performed by the individual, the family or the private corporation. Unless responsible groups maintain a continuing struggle against this growth of public functions we soon shall find the nation in the futile impasse of Germany and Great Britain, where citizens are weighed down by tax burdens and the governments are strangled in their effort to carry on a maze of duties not properly theirs.

America has become great because the individual and the business corporation have enjoyed a wide sphere of liberty. The driving force of our economy has been the normal acquisitive instinct of the individual. Doubtless some checks on this sphere of freedom are inevitable as our society becomes integrated. But we should not be stampeded into hasty concentration of power in government. The consequences for our general welfare would be disastrous.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHAT FOR US IN ASIA?

The logical conclusion of European-American consent to a Japanese protectorate in Manchuria and Japanese occupation of Shanghai is a revival of European "spheres of influence" in China. No fresh assertion of these spheres is as yet apparent, but nothing could point more plainly to their eventual revival than a general consent of the powers to Japanese ascendancy over a portion of China. Tokio's authority in the chief Chinese commercial city, joined to the occupation of Manchuria, involves compensation, and such compensation means British protection of the Yang-Tse valley and French protection of the southernmost provinces.

It is needless to say that an American ""sphere of influence" in China is out of the question. We have never laid claim to any such sphere, and it is perfectly apparent that the American people want nothing of the sort. So we are on the outside of the whole development.

It can not be denied that the lack of any sort of effective government in China, with its encouragement of division and banditry, may be cogently urged as justification for a sort of European partition of the country. The present situation of the country, and the energetic action of Japan, puts us back to the condition which prevailed at the close of the successful war of Japan against China in 1895. The thing which John Hay rescued for us then was the open door for our own and the rest of the world's trade in the Chinese ports. Let us hope that at least as much as that will be saved for America's commercial interests in the present debacle of Chinese national authority.—Boston Transcript.

Bed for a Typhoid Suspect.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Typhoid fever is a disease of worldwide prevalence. It is common to all countries and is met both in cities and the rural districts. Wherever the typhoid bacillus is to be found there will be cases of typhoid fever.

The discharges from a typhoid patient may contaminate drinking water. The unwashed hands of a person with "walking typhoid" may infect milk, fruits, ice-cream, butter or vegetables. It is possible that flies may carry filth and cause pollution.

One who has had typhoid, or who has been in contact with a case, may become a "carrier." Epidemics of apparently obscure origin have been traced to such persons.

The early symptoms of typhoid are not characteristic. A feeling of lassitude and weakness may be noticed for a week or two before the disease is recognized. But before long there will be severe headache, backache and fever, accompanied by diarrhea and pain in the abdomen. The symptoms are worse at night and the fever then is more intense. In the morning the patient may feel comparatively well.

Early in the second week the characteristic rose-colored spots appear on the abdomen. A blood test proves that the case is actually typhoid.

During the second and third weeks the symptoms continue growing worse. Improvement is noted in the fourth week, in a favorable case. Then the patient begins to struggle slowly back to health.

The typhoid bacillus attacks the glands of the intestine. First they cause swelling, then inflammation and ulceration. The progress of the disease corresponds to the changes in the intestinal glands. Recovery takes place when the ulcerated glands are healed.

The first measure to be taken in the prevention of typhoid fever, and in guarding a community against it, is to secure a pure water supply. The proper disposal of waste comes next. The dairies must be under constant inspection to guard against the contamination of the milk supply. All food handlers must be examined, to discover the presence of "carriers."

Persons suffering from typhoid must be kept in a screened room. The excretions from the body should be disinfected and all soiled clothing should be placed in a disinfecting solution. Nurses are taught the importance of strict cleanliness in washing the hands well after touching the patient.

Attendants upon typhoid cases should be vaccinated against the disease. This is a measure that affords reasonable protection for two or three years.

If typhoid is even suspected, the patient should be put to bed and kept there. The room should be well ventilated and quiet. No disturbing visitors should be admitted.

The patient should receive a liquid or semi-liquid diet, as ordered by the physician. Water should be taken in as large quantities as possible.

The various symptoms should be dealt with as they arise, but there is no specific treatment. Perfect quiet, with diet to keep up the strength and to guard against exhaustion, are the important factors in treatment.

French Steel Industry Fades.

BY RALPH HEINZEN

Paris, Jan. 30—U.P.—Statistics of production and exports of the iron and steel trade show that the industry in France has been hard hit by the slump in sterling and the increased competition of British and German steel in foreign markets.

The latest figures, those for November, show that production has fallen to 530,000 tons a month, compared with 799,000 tons in November, 1929; 765,000 tons in November, 1930, and 581,000 tons for November, 1931.

The French steel industry struggled for two years after the collapse of Wall street brought general world depression. Gradually, neighboring countries closed their ports to foreign steel and France found her goods fighting for markets in Germany, England, Spain, Luxembourg, Italy and Switzerland.

• • •

Meanwhile French steel requirements hit a new low level, in proportion to the general slump in French industrial production. French steel needs were 679,000 tons a month in 1929, but fell to 654,000 tons in 1930. The year just ended saw a rapid decline in demand from 597,000 tons a month for the first trimester to 542,000 tons for the second and 499,000 tons for the third trimester.

Even before the world crisis exports showed a decline. France sent an average of 376,000 tons of high quality steel abroad monthly during 1927, but this fell to 363,000 tons in 1928, 220,000 tons in 1929, 288,000 tons in 1930 and 263,000 tons monthly for the last quarter of 1931.

• • •

As world competition increased, prices fell. They are now less than half the gold value of steel in 1913. Taking the prices of the Brussells' Bourse, calculated on a gold base, the 1913 average represented five, the 1929 average 5.8 and the 1931 closing prices 2.15.

French railroads, shipyards, automobile manufacturers and other heavy users of steel cut their orders drastically. That is why the government has been anxious to see parliament rush to a vote the project for building modern ports and warehouses in many of the continental and colonial coast cities and for the construction of the transsahara railway, both of which will require immense quantities of steel.

Meanwhile with production at the level of 530,000 tons monthly—33 per cent. less than last year at this time—and domestic requirements 500,000 tons a month, manufacturers are anxious that the government negotiate with Britain, Italy, Spain and Belgium to obtain tariff concessions which will facilitate the marketing of French steel.

Drake and Chase.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

When Salmon P. Chase came out to Ohio in 1820 and entered the private school of his uncle, Bishop Philander Chase, at Worthington, he found in his classes there a young Cincinnati boy, nearly three years his junior, who gave evidence of possessing unusual ability, and whom young Chase was to meet again under unusual circumstances. The Cincinnati boy was Charles Daniel Drake. He attended St. Joseph college in Kentucky later, and then went to a military academy at Middletown, Connecticut. This led to his entrance into the navy, where he served for a time as midshipman. Then he returned to Cincinnati, studied law and was admitted to the bar. He then went to St. Louis, which was to be his home for the rest of his life. Elected to the legislature of Missouri he distinguished himself as an opponent to secession. He was elected to the United States senate in 1867, but resigned before his term was finished to accept appointment as chief justice of the United States court of claims.

It was while he was a member of the senate that the impeachment charges against President Andrew Johnson came before the senate for trial. There as a senator, he faced Salmon P. Chase, his old schoolmate back at Worthington, Ohio, more than a half a century before, who as chief justice presided over the senate at the trial.

The taking of testimony had scarcely started before there was a clash between the two men over the power of the chief justice in that capacity. Drake led the senators who held that Chase could only put measures before the senate and declare the result; that he could not vote on a subsidiary matter or make a ruling. Chase believed he could rule on anything not bearing directly on the question of guilt or innocence of the accused, and while the debate on this question was in progress, a vote on the withdrawal of the senate for deliberation being a tie, the chief justice cast his vote for the affirmative and rising with great dignity, led the way for the senators out of the chamber while they followed, practically giving assent to the claim of the chief justice as to his power and authority in the hearing.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, Jan. 30—Go ahead, coax your head off, but the only way I'll attend another party is for the host or hostess to come after me and lead me to the festivities. Twice in as many weeks I've knocked at doors of wrong houses and received the frozen gaze of carib faced butlers.

Outside of a dowager squinting through a lorgnette, nothing awes me so pluperfectly as the calm self-sufficience of a butler. If he is in knee pants, add the gulps and a shake of the tibia. And if he's wearing a powdered wig I let go a piercing shriek and pitty-pat off like a startled gazelle.

Am I butler conscious? I often dream of walking up to one of those Fifth avenue mansions with a portcullis, buzzing the button and when one of the side-whiskered mugs comes to the door, slap him smack in the pan with a loose custard pie and toddle down the steps like Chaplin.

But what I started out to relate was the mix up at the most recent party. It was at Judge and Helen Young's, and quaintly enough I got into the right house, but I got there twenty-four hours too early, having read the invitation hurriedly and misplaced it.

Prettying myself up, giving a romantic and high school brush to my hair, of which I have almost a complete set, I presented myself to the missus. "Are you certain it is today?" she inquired. "No," I replied in my cutting way, "it is next autumn, but I want to drop in to tell them we are coming."

She smoothed things over; "All right, all right, Mr. Addison Simms, just so you remember." And so we got going, circling through Central Park and heading for an address in the east Sixties. After a time, from her. "I had an idea somehow it was a tea."

• • •

"It was a dinner," curtly, the left-hand beginning to clench. "And it would please me," I added in the grand manner, "if you would this once permit me to think for the family. There are persistent rumors I'm a whole notch above sub-normal."

• • •

Arriving, I chirped to the telephone girl and a cute number, too—"The Judge Youngs sevoo play!" She announced us, and up we shot in the elevator. In the foyor hall my wife remarked: "I don't hear voices." To which I replied. "You wouldn't." A maid let us in.

• • •

We deposited wraps and strolled into an empty living-room, so quiet you could hear the clock tick. There is a silly staccato chatter of editorial rooms we indulge in festive moments. So from her: "Visiting Columnist Receives Big Ovation." I replied tartly: "It happens we arrived early." And I sank into a cushioned chair and began skimming through a book. From her again: "You are sure it was today." That got me! "If you ask that once more," I yelled, "I'm going to vault out a window." Silence and a blase effort to read a magazine upside down. Accompanied by a fresh outcropping of the foot taps.

• • •

In about twenty minutes the maid peeked in. "Were Judge and Mrs. Young expecting you" she cooed. "They shouldn't have asked us if they didn't," replied the venerable fun lover. But I was becoming irked. In fact I became general headquarters for all the loose irk in the neighborhood. But there was no use taking it out on the maid. So brightly: "We accepted the Judge Youngs invitation to dinner." She replied: "That is tomorrow, and it is not a dinner, it is a tea."

• • •

From the missus: "City Chap in Social Blunder." I tried to pass it off in an outburst of giggles that suggested a cawing raven. You know, this is a good one on me, haw! haw haw! But I wasn't able to snigger her over to my side. She had developed irk trouble herself. Said she to the maid: "Please tell the Judge Youngs that a prominent nit-wit thought their tea tomorrow was a dinner today." And she flounced out of the room with me padding along in her trail, humming, and I can hum when I put my mind to it.

• • •

Home through the park again in that ominous quiet so often press agenting a tornado. Dinner consisted of a few sly snaffles from the ice-box. A moment ago I stuck my head in the room where she is reading to headline "Wonder Kiddie Faw Down!" But she looked too, you know. So I tiptoed away. And here I am.—Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Jan. 30—Whatever else may result from the senate finance committee's investigation of the sale of foreign securities during these past few weeks, one thing is certain—

The open hearings were a success socially.

There have been few investigations conducted "on the hill," which attracted the elite more than this one. The big room, in which Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, lambasted witnesses ranging from the greatest of bankers to attaches in the state department at times took on the appearance of a fashionable salon.

At almost any one of the hearings smartly gowned women, some with lorgnettes, representative of the last word in Washington social swank, could be picked out in the crowd that took up about every bit of space in the room.

Socially prominent spinsters, wives of high ranking officials and prominent diplomats mingled with the mass of curious ones always found at such events.

• • •

Several things brought them out.

First of all it was the witnesses. Men like Thomas P. Lamont, of the house of Morgan, Mitchell of the National City bank, and Otto Kahn do not appear before congressional investigating committees every day. Many sat in the close, stuffy room just to get a good look at them.

Then the appearance of state department dignitaries had appeal. As the hearings went on, testimony was heard about state department activity which promised spicy sessions.

And when Francis White, assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin-American affairs, himself took the stand—a radical departure—interest reached its highest pitch.

Even Mrs. White, the assistant secretary's wife attended and eagerly watched her husband grapple with Senator "Hi."

• • •

Senator Johnson himself made the affair quite interesting and worthwhile. He emerged from the investigation with colors flying and henceforth must be placed in the front rank of senate investigators.

Almost single-handed he broke through witnesses' testimony to unearth that which he sought. Not many of them were able to withstand his constant barrage of searching questions, and once he thought he was on the right track he became almost merciless.

He had been criticized before because it was said he stopped with a witness when he had him on the verge of "opening up." Certainly that couldn't be said of him in this investigation.

No Use in Exposing It.

It's all right to have a family skeleton but you shouldn't dress her up in an evening gown.—Meridian Star.

HART GRANTED SECOND STAY

Attorneys Seeking Records Regarding Addison's Health.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 30—Another continuance has been granted William Hart, 36, Mt. Vernon grocer, who will go on trial here charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of George Addison of Bloomfield who died a week after receiving knife wounds in a fight.

Judge W. P. Vaughan granted the request of defense Attorneys T. F. Mateer and J. S. McDevitt for additional time to secure evidence as to Addison's physical condition at the time of the stabbing. Records of the veterans' bureau at Washington have not yet been received. Judge Vaughan has set Feb. 9 for the start of the trial. The trial date was originally set for Jan. 26 and a continuance then granted to Feb. 2.

Hart's attorneys claim that the evidence of the veterans' bureau records is vital to proving their claim that Addison's death was not caused by the wounds but by infirmities existing prior to the time of the stabbing.

The motion for the latest continuance was granted Friday after Judge Vaughan heard arguments of the defense attorneys.

Confusion as to the exact source from which the records of Addison's previous physical condition could be ascertained have delayed the defense attorneys in obtaining the evidence as the records were not at Washington in possession of the bureau. They will be sent here when found.

For that purpose we must have the fastest and best gunned machines possible to produce.

"The squadron should have 24 airplanes each, or one hundred to the group. I found there five airplanes to the squadron, of different kinds and conditions. These are from 25 to 65 miles slower than the pursuit airplanes used in Europe or Japan. Their guns are not much. They are entirely inferior to anything we might have to go up against.

"The personnel is simply disgusted with conditions. They have neither equipment nor any incentive. Men who served in the war 13 years ago are still lieutenants. Old, doddering men are commanding the air units where we should have young, lively people, imbued with the spirit of 'do.'

"On the other hand, all sorts of buildings are being constructed, hangars that cost $93,000 each, great barracks and officers' quarters.

"Every branch of our aviation is in the same condition. It is too long a story to tell you. There is on chief at the head of any branch of aviation in this country who actually had any big command at the front during the war. All aviation has been pressed into the background and made subsidiary to something else On the other hand, we are spending enormous sums and propaganda is going out from the administration about what wonderful things are being done. It is disgraceful.

Pictures

WITH the observance of the Washington Bicentennial getting well under way some of us are seriously considering dusting off the old school books and reviving some of the things we were supposed to have been mentally absorbing when what we really were doing was casting "sheeps eyes" at our latest crush or sulking because he paid a little too much attention to our rival. The celebration should bring to light some interesting things, among them some of those famous old pictures of the father of his country, his inauguration, the winter at Valley Forge and many others which used to grace the walls in the homes of some of those old Civil War veterans, and judging from the reverence with which some of them used to sit and study them, must have meant much to them.

The Hood Era

AND speaking of eras, there are folks who remember when everybody, that is the female of the species, was hood conscious. It was a poor wardrobe that didn't possess at least two hoods and if a journey was to be made mid-season a third might be crocheted to just sort of pep up the ensemble. The popcorn stitch was a popular one and we challenge any one to say it was not pretty. Of course the style of frill on the hood varied according to one's type of beauty and those who would be ultra feminine bedecked them with ribbon bows. Black, red and white were popular colors while sometimes a combination of colors was used, just to be "different."

Experiments

THESE days when old man depression seems to have us down for the count, have their bright spots so some folks try to tell us and perhaps what we really need is a sound slapping down, but after all we're all ready to howl "nuf." There are hundreds of souls who aren't even wailing and their's are the stories we like to hear. We were interested in a woman we met recently who was right on her toes whenever there was a chance to learn something new in the way of household economies and inexpensive meals. She wasn't the type that stands and waits but rather ventured a little on her own initiative. The mother of 11 children, nine of whom were at home, it doesn't take an ouija board to guess she was busy. The youngsters would like to "piece" between meals, and she guessed they were hungry but at that rate it would take twice as much to feed them, so that was out, the "new" potatoes she had for dinner one day this week were old ones that looked so small she kidded the family into believing they were new, and she was willing to try anything that would make salt pork look like chicken a la king and cabbage like brussels sprouts. She even tried a little experimenting for herself and cooked a kettle of whole wheat with some fat pork, just like you would beans, she said, and, she beamingly told us, "the family liked it."

SUNSHINE CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS

Norma Harrell was elected president of the Sunshine class of Greenwood Evangelical church at a meeting last night at her home on Park street.

Officers for the year were elected as follows: Pauline Staley, vice president; Ruth Anna Radabaugh, secretary; Opal Marie Gaster, treasurer; Elizabeth Jeffrey, reporter.

Catherine Armbruster, president, was in charge of the meeting, opening with a devotional service. Mrs. Belle Donaugh led in prayer.

In a social hour contest awards were presented Catherine Armbruster, Violet Bosh and Elizabeth Jeffrey. Ruth Anna Radabaugh assisted the hostess in serving.

Single Branches Held In Awe.
By The Schaffner-Queen Co.
In a Japanese home, one never sees just a single branch, of either plant or tree, used as a room decoration. The Japanese housewife would instantly remove a lone twig or spray.
To Americans, the idea seems strange—almost absurd. There is, however, a sound reason for it. The single branch, in Japan, betokens solemnity and grief, and is used only on very sad occassions—to symbolize extreme sorrow. The Japanese sense of fitness will not permit its use otherwise. Here, in America, a similar feeling is evinced in the engaging of a funeral director. People in general naturally perfer a director who shares their own sense of propriety and restraint and in whom they can place their utmost confidence.

Bucyrus Stops Ashland 20-18; Shelby Downs Galion

MORRAL GIRLS CINCH CROWN IN WEST HALF OF RURAL LOOP

REDMEN END LOSING STREAK; VICTORY IS FIRST THIS SEASON

Result Gives Harding Chance To Take Lead in N. C. O. Loop.

Bucyrus High school paved the way for the possible entry of the Harding Presidents into undisputed possession of the top post of the N. C. O. league tonight by recording their initial victory of the season Friday night over the Ashland Hilltoppers. The final score was 20-18 and the defeat shoved the Ashlanders into a double tie for third place in the standings, while the Bucyrus victory, coupled with the defeat of Galion by Shelby, enabled the Redmen to climb into a tie for fifth place with Galion. The loser of tonight's conflict between Mansfield and Harding will move into second place to make it a three-way dispute for the post.

The Bucyrus Redmen reversed their usual form of play last night in beating the Hilltoppers. In every game to date this season the Kish-coached combine has started the game fast and then wilted in the latter periods to take the short end of the score. Last night the Redmen started the game in deliberate fashion and then gathered momentum as the battle progressed, staging a second half uprising to down the Hilltoppers, by the two point margin.

Ashland jumped into a first period lead over Bucyrus, leading 4-1 as the first quarter ended. Bucyrus speeded up in the second period, outscoring the visitors 5-4 but still trailed at the half-way mark 8-6.

In the third period Bucyrus again outscored Ashland 6-5 but still continued to trail by one point as the game entered the final period.

Staging a final quarter rally, Bucyrus racked up a total of eight points while holding Ashland to five to tally the first victory in 15 games for the Redmen.

The Bucyrus Reserve team won from Ashland in a furious overtime battle 21-20. The regular playing time ended with the score 17-17.

Star in Action

Here is Ralph Sickel, University of Kansas sprinter, in action. He started his 1932 eastern track invasion at the indoor meet at Newark, N. J. and although he failed to place there is expected to give some of Uncle Sam's dash men plenty of opposition when the time rolls around for the Olympic trials. He should get somewhere. He's working hard

HERO READY TO PLAY AGAINST MANSFIELD

Harding Forward's Leg Appears Able To Stand Hard Battle Tonight.

Harding's chances of a victory over Mansfield were considerably strengthened by the report today that Billie Hero's injured leg had responded to treatment and the diminutive forward is apparently ready for action against the Tygers tonight. Hero has been suffering for more than a week from a charley horse but he went through yesterday's practice without difficulty.

Just what team Coach D. N. Bohyer will start against Mansfield is somewhat of a question. The first five men will probably be picked from the following men: Pickerel, Hero, Blecher, Lindsey, Fred Vestal and Jack Ling. However, which one of the above will grace the bench as the game gets under way is not known. Boyher may cross things up by naming a lineup entirely different from those individuals just named.

The reserve teams of the two schools will also be battling tonight for more than just a victory. Both of them are tied for top place in the Jay Vee standings, neither having lost a game in four starts. The victor will gain undisputed possession of top place, both in the reserve game and in the varsity encounter.

WALDO, CALEDONIA BOYS' TEAMS WIN TO STAY IN TIE FOR EAST HALF LEAD

Claridon Girls Chalk Up Eighth Straight Victory of Season.

BY KARL B. M'ELROY

It's going to be a mighty tough job keeping Morral from winning two championships in the western division of the Marion County High School Basketball league.

This was demonstrated last night when both the boys' and girls' teams turned in neat victories over Green Camp. The girls clinched the championship by defeating the second place Green Camp sextet 21 to 14 while the boys moved another step nearer the title by winning 32 to 25.

The boys face tough sledding in the two games remaining on their schedule. They are expecting no trouble in defeating LaRue but Meeker may provide a stumbling block in spite of the fact that Morral defeated the Montgomery township school a week ago. The Morral girls must defeat LaRue to keep their season's slate clean.

The Green Camp boys started the first quarter with blood in their eyes and Morral's position at the top of the standings did not seem so secure. But they weathered the storm to lead 11 to 10 as the period closed. Then Green Camp weakened and Morral took a safe lead. Newland again led his teammates in scoring when he caged 18 points. Reynolds and Ritzler were high for Green Camp, each scoring 11 points.

The Green Camp girls put up a great battle until the final period. There was never a second in the first three periods that Morral was not in danger. Morral, however, broke though the Green Camp defense in the last frame to pile up a substantial lead. Washburn gave Morral 12 points while Hedges did the same for Green Camp.

CLARIDON DIVIDES

Kirkpatrick Boys Win; Claridon Girls Cop Eighth in Row.

Kirkpatrick High school boys, eased out of the running for the second straight division title last week by Waldo, last night gained some sort of revenge for that beating by turning in a 23-15 victory over Claridon in a game played on the Kirkpatrick court. The victory puts Kirk in third place in the East half of the county league standings, Waldo and Caledonia remaining in a deadlock for the highest post.

Claridon put up a good battle against Kirkpatrick and might have been able to stage an upset had not the Men of Furniss been allowed to pile up a commanding lead in the first few minutes of the game.

After spotting their rivals a good advantage, Claridon came back strong and played on practically even terms with the winner the rest of the time

R. Hart of Kirk was high scorer of the fray with nine points.

The Claridon girls maintained their spotless record in county competition by trouncing the Kirkpatrick lassies in the preliminary encounter by a 22-19 score. Kirkpatrick started the game fast and appeared likely to end the long winning streak of Claridon as the first period ended 10-3 in favor of Kirk but a sudden rally in the second period evened matters and paved the way for the eighth victory in a row for Claridon. M. Lemke of Kirkpatrick was high scorer with 17 points while Wilcox and Retterer of Claridon trailed with 10 each.

CALEDONIA TAKES TWO

Martel Shows Better Form But Loses Twin Bill.

Martel's Green and White basketball teams were given a double setback last night on their home court by the Caledonia boys' and girls' teams. The Martel girls lost by a 24-14 count while the Caledonia boys were romping off with a 42-15 decision.

The inexperienced Martel boys' team flashed considerably more strength last night than in previous starts but despite this could not withstand the high powered scoring attack of Caledonia.

The girls' game was an interesting fray most of the way until the Caledonia girls stepped out in front by a good margin late in the game.

No box scores were available on these two games.

MEEKER WINS AGAIN

Agosta Quint Beaten by One-Sided Count of 42-11.

After taking their first setback of the season last week, the Meeker High school boys came back last night and trampled Agosta under a 42-11 score to keep in the running for the championship of the Western division of the county league. Meeker can tie for the championship by taking Morral into camp next week.

No box score was available on the game last night.

Crowley Withdraws.

By The Associated Press

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 30—The field of candidates for the position of head football coach at the University of Iowa was narrowed by one today following announcement by athletic officials last night that James H. Crowley of Michigan State had withdrawn his name. Elimination of the Michigan State mentor leaves Ike Armstrong of the University of Utah as perhaps the most favored candidate.

Prospect Boys and Girls Cop Double Header Bill from LaRue.

Playing a great game in the first two periods and then faltering badly in the final two frames, Pleasant township boys' basketball team went down to a 30-14 defeat at the hands of Waldo last night in a game played on the Waldo court. The victory keeps Waldo in the running for the Eastern division championship of the Marion county league for at least another week. Caledonia is the next foe for Waldo, these two teams now holding a tie for the East half leadership. They will clash at Caledonia next Friday night.

Pleasant jumped into a slight lead over Waldo early in the game and held it through most of the first two periods. Waldo finally gained the lead with a basket shortly before halftime. The score at the half was 12-10 for Waldo.

Coming back strong in the third frame Waldo went on a scoring rampage that put them out in front of Pleasant by a good margin before the second half had much more than gotten under way. Pleasant failed to regain its first half stride and Waldo was steadily increasing its advantage as the game came to a close.

The Waldo seconds lost to the Pleasant seconds in a preliminary clash. The Waldo and Pleasant girls' game was postponed at the request of Pleasant.

PROSPECT WINS TWO

LaRue Boys Falter in Final Period To Lose 25-24.

Prospect boys' and girls' teams gained two victories over LaRue last night in a twin-bill played on the Prospect court. The Prospect girls finished on the long end of a 19-12 count while the Prospect boys edged out LaRue 26-24 in a furiously contested battle.

Only a final period rally pulled the game out of the fire for the Prospect boys. LaRue jumped into the lead and led at the end of the first period by a one point margin increasing the margin to two points by halftime. In the third period Prospect fell two points farther behind to allow LaRue to go into the last quarter leading by a 22-18 score.

Staging a desperate rally that netted seven points while LaRue could gather but two, Prospect forged into the lead with only a few minutes left to play and LaRue was unable to regain the lead.

Millisor of LaRue was high scorer with 11 points.

The Prospect girls jumped into a first period lead over LaRue and held the advantage all through the game outscoring the losers by a slight margin in every quarter of play. Kyle of Prospect was high scorer with nine tallies.

EPWORTH WINS SIXTH IN ROW TO SET PACE IN CHURCH CIRCUIT

Lee Street Bows to Methodists 33-19; Trinity Downs Presbies 24-14.

Epworth M. E. basketball team continues to ride the crest of the standings in the Marion city Sunday school court league as a result of their sixth consecutive victory last night on the Y. M. C. A. court. Lee Street Presbyterians fell victim to the Methodist sharpshooters in last night's fray, losing 33-19. In the other half of the two-way program, Trinity Baptist hauled the First Presbyterians down another notch in the league standings by handing the 1931 champions the third beating in six starts.

Lee Street put up a valiant fight against the Methodists for three periods of the conflict although the league leaders held the advantage all of the time. Epworth led 8-5 at the half way point and 16-11 at the end of the third period.

Staging a high powered rally in the final frame as Lee Street rapidly weakened, the Methodists went on a scoring spree that carried them out in front by a wide margin by the time the game was ended.

Trinity Baptist had no more than average difficulty in overcoming the resistance offered by the First Presbyterians and came out on the long end of a 24-14 score. Trinity jumped into a lead in the first period and held the advantage most of the time. A second period spurt that gave the losers a 10-7 lead at halftime was the only time in the game when the Baptists were not in the lead.

Scoring honors were evenly divided among the players.

LEVINSKY BEATEN IN SLOW RING BOUT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—Madison Square Garden's heavyweight elimination tournament to find a possible alternate for either of the principals in the Schmeling-Sharkey title fight next June today found Max Baer and King Levinsky apparently among the eliminated.

The two clowns of the ring attended to their own eliminations personally last night when they fought 10 dull rounds to a decision for Baer.

They made faces at each other, they laughed as one or the other occasionally landed a wild swing or missed one—it seemed to make no difference which—but as far as proving themselves fit ring companions for either the champ or Sharkey they decidedly did not.

The Business college took the lead in the first period and held it all through the game.

Luella Mautz of the Business college was high scorer of the game with 15 points. Clara Disterdick of the same team trailed with nine markers.

WHIPPETS RALLY TO TURN BACK INVADING ORANGEMEN QUINTET

Young - Coached Combine Gains 24-23 Decision on Home Court.

The Shelby High school Whippet basketball team hopped right into the thick of the battle for the North Central Ohio league flag last night by taking the measure of the oft-beaten Galion Orangemen, 24-23. in a furious battle that was not decided until the final seconds of the fray.

Both teams battled on almost even terms in the first two periods, Galion holding a one-point margin at the end of the first frame and a two-point advantage at the half way intermission.

Shelby launched what was later destined to be a winning rally in the third period and picked up one of the two point advantage held by the Orangemen, the third period ending with Galion ahead. 17-16.

A furious struggle for points in the final frame saw the Whippets emerge on the long end of the count as they scored eight points to six for Galion to take the single point victory.

Don Burnison came near pulling the game out of the first for Galion as he looped a long shot through just as the gun sounded the end of the game. Officials ruled the basket did not count and the ruling cost the game for Galion.

Burnison played a good game for the losers, holding the high scoring Gus Culbertson to two field goals. Culbertson also turned in a pair of charity tosses for a total of six points, Goldsmith of Galion was high scorer of the game with 10 points.

The Galion Reserves copped the preliminary tilt from the Whippet seconds by a 16-10 count.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER— WHAT A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT— AS THEY PROMENADE THE DECK— BUT WHERE IS BIM? NOW THAT MILLIE'S MOTHER IS ANXIOUS TO MEET HIM— HE IS NO WHERE TO BE FOUND—
ALL DAY— EVERYWHERE— UP AND DOWN THE DECK— AND MILLIE ALL DRESSED UP IN HER NEW CLOTHES— BUT NO BIM— WHERE CAN HE BE? WHY DOESN'T HE COME OUT?
I'M SO ANXIOUS TO HAVE HIM SEE YOU
MAMA DE STROSS MADE A LITTLE SCOUTING TOUR ALL BY HERSELF TO SEE IF SHE COULD FIND HIM— PEEKED ON ALL THE DECKS— BUT NO BIM—
AND ALL UNCONSCIOUS OF THE SEARCH THAT IS BEING MADE FOR HIM— BIM SITS ALONE IN HIS STATE ROOM—
THE OLD GUARD— THE LOOK SHE GAVE ME WHEN I SAW HER LAST— WOULD FREEZE YOU— I'M AFRAID TO EVEN GO UP ON THE DECK—

HUSH—AND DON'T INSULT ME BY SAYING YOU'LL SEND BACK WHAT I GIVE FOR A PRESENT

Madam we help you write your ad. WRITE the RIGHT kind of an ad and it will do the JOB. Just the difference between saying: "$400 and easy terms"; or "$400 and small down payment" may mean the sale of a car; the lack of mentioning bus line and heat may keep you from getting results for your FURNISHED FLAT ad; there is all the difference in the world between "pleasant cozy flat" and "4-room flat." WELL TOLD IS HALF SOLD. The BEST ads bring the BEST RESULTS.

The Stars Say—
For Sunday, Jan. 31

SUNDAY'S horoscope is of rather routine importance with affairs of church and clergy flourishing in a degree and mystical affairs developing a peculiar angle.

There should be caution as to writings, sudden moves and the finances; also safeguard the physical condition.

Those whose birthday it is may not have a very important year, although there is a sign of steady progress if diligence and industry be followed and the finances protected. Also the physical well-being. A child born on this day should be fairly clever, industrious and dependable and much of its success depends on these.

Notable nativity: Eddie Cantor, actor.

* * *

For Monday, Feb. 1

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for unusual and unexpected activity in private as well as business affairs. There is likely to be quite a sudden development affecting both associations, with much initiative and quick action called for. But be on guard in negotiations with large corporations, mergers and secret societies.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an interesting year, with events of an unforeseen nature arising calling for quick action and high personal initiative. These affect the private as well as business matters and employment. But be cautious in dealing with large combines, rings and secret societies, and sign all writings carefully. A child born on this day should be very active, energetic, have much gumption.

Fractional losses predominated at the finish, embracing such issues as American Telephone, Southern Pacific, Consolidated Gas, Case, American Can, Westinghouse, Union Pacific, Radio and Chesapeake & Ohio. A gain of more than a point in Eastman was lost later. Soft spots were Western Union off 1, and Auburn, off 3.

The cotton market closed up only 20 to 35 cents, although increased buying from abroad occasioned considerable comment, as well as reports of a larger movement from gulf ports to Japan. The upturn in wheat was attributed largely to severely cold weather over certain areas in Canada and the west.

COLD FORECAST BOOSTS GRAIN

Prospect of Sub-Zero Weather Sends Prices Suddenly Higher.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 — Decided fresh up turns in grain prices early today accompanied forecasts of 10 degrees below zero weather in Chicago tonight.

News of the landing of Japanese reinforcements and of American marines and British troops at Shanghai tended also to stimulate grain price upturns.

Opening ⅝@1⅛ higher, wheat later continued to show strength. Corn started ¼@⅜ up, and subsequently rose further.

Assertions that growing weather would be requisite to determine the extent of cold wave crop damage led to reactions from early top prices for wheat. One leading expert said winter wheat in most sections east of the Missouri river had attained more than usual winter growth and as a result should now have rootage deep and strong enough for the crop to be frozen to the ground without suffering little more harm than would be done by cattle grazing. He added, however that where conditions were abnormal such as the plants being jointed, or being caught suddenly by severe low temperatures while sap was active, or the plants had insufficient top or root growth, serious damage was certain.

Much broader activity than of late prevailed in the wheat pit. On one of the price bulges, the market rose to the highest point reached since Nov. 21 last. Profit taking sales were a feature of the advances. Corn and oats followed the fluctuations.

Provisions advanced with hog values, and with grain.
